

$5-MILLION JUNIATA CENTENNIAL FUND LAUNCHED

$1.2-million in advance gifts assured in final phase

With $1,215,000 dollars in advance gifts toward a goal of $5-million, Juniata College officially inaugurated the Juniata Centennial Fund, the final phase of its eight-year $10.1-million development program on October 13, 1973 before an enthusiastic homecoming gathering of alumni, faculty, trustees and students on the college campus.

President John N. Stauffer made the announcement of the $1,215,000 already assured toward the historic 100th anniversary campaign. The early surge provides the basis for successful completion of the development effort by the college's centennial celebration in 1976.

The Columbia Gas System, Inc., a trustee, serves as the Special Gifts Chairman.

Heading the alumni phase of the Centennial Fund will be Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus O. Caulton '29, who served as co-chairmen of the highly successful 1970-71 Annual Support Fund. Mr. Caulton is a retired RCA executive. Francis W. Zimmerman '54, Supervisor of System Service and Support Data Processing, Bell Telephone Co., who also served as Annual Support Fund Chairman for the record-breaking 1972-73 campaign, will provide the necessary leadership for the Church effort. Former chairman of the President's Development Council, James G. Thompson, Chairman of the Board of the General Finance Corporation, will serve as the chairman of the Friends of the College campaign. Attorney Marion D. Patterson of Hollidaysburg, whose son will graduate in 1976, is serving as the chairman of the Juniata Parents campaign.

The Juniata Centennial Fund is designed to strengthen Juniata's capacity for providing sound liberal arts education. The most urgent need is for enlargement of the endowment fund which now stands in excess of $5-million, up from $2.8-million during the past five years.

VOLUME LXXII / NUMBER 3

NOVEMBER 1973

In the period 1968-72, Phase I and II of the Margin of Difference were completed successfully with $5.3-million being raised for the endowment fund, for Ellis Hall and for general educational advance. This success opens the way for the Centennial Fund which during 1973-76 is aimed at preparing the college for its second century of service.

Honorary Chairman for the Juniata Centennial Fund is Edwin L. Kennedy, trustee of the college, who is a Senior Partner, Lehman Brothers, a New York investment firm. Honorary Vice-Chairmen are: Lester M. Rosenberger, President, National Milling and Chemical Company, Vice Chairman of the Board of Trustees; Dr. George C. Griffith, Professor Emeritus of Cardiology, University of Southern California, a member of the class of 1921; and Robert C. Baker, Chairman of the Executive Committee, American Security and Trust Company, a trustee and also a member of the class of 1921.

General Chairman for the fund is Charles C. Ellis, Senior Vice President-Finance, RCA, a member of the class of 1940 and a trustee. Trustee Chairman is Joseph R. Good, retired President, Hollidaysburg Trust Company, a member of the class of 1933, while the Juniata Valley Chairman is William E. Swigart, Jr., President, Mutual Benefit Insurance Company, a member of the class of 1937; the Constituencies Chairman is Dr. Thomas R. Miller, Vice President, Union Carbide Corporation, a trustee and member of the class of 1936 and the Foundation Chairman is Thomas A. Martin, Director, Division on Taxation, American Petroleum Institute, a trustee. LeRoy S. Maxwell, Sr., Attorney, Maxwell and Bridgers, a trustee and member of the class of 1936, serves as Deferred Giving Chairman while Cecil E. Loomis, Retired Chairman of the Board,

Dr. Calvert N. Ellis

Dr. Esther M. Doyle

Stephen M. Sachs

Dr. John C. Baker '17 Chairman, Board of Trustees

"The Juniata Centennial Fund will be achieved because of the dedication and devotion of all of you, the sound and modern educational program which is a great tribute to the faculty, students and the administration, the dedicated leadership and support of our trustees, the unity which makes our individual efforts effective, and our faith and deep conviction in the rightness of our cause."

Dr. John N. Stauffer '36 President, Juniata College

"As Juniata marks her centennial celebration in 1976, we must look not only to the accomplishments of her first 100 years, but to the challenge of her second century of service. Increased effort is required to gain added strength and renewed commitment so that we may celebrate the centennial with a confident look to the future. We want the Juniata of the future to be even more auspicious in her usefulness than the Juniata of the past. Our legacy is rich; let us give thanks by adding to that richness."

Charles C. Ellis '40 General Chairman, Juniata Centennial Fund

"If we are willing to commit our full energy to furthering this College's purposes, our success is assured."

Charles C. Brown, Jr. '59 Alumni Council President

"I am convinced that the alumni of Juniata College will not be found wanting during this Centennial endeavor. We believe in the future of our alma mater. So for myself and the Juniata Alumni Association, I assure you of our support as we move towards 1976 and the years beyond."

Dr. Calvert N. Ellis '23

President Emeritus of Juniata College, delivered the invocation at the inauguration of the Juniata Centennial Fund. Dr. Ellis served as president of the College for 25 years from 1943-1968.

Dr. Esther M. Doyle

ty of Juniata and I can tell you that the faculty believes in Juniata and they demonstrated this so well to the investigating committee for the National Endowment for the Humanities, that as you know, the agency responded with more than a quarter of a million dollars. You and I don't have grants of government size but if each of us gives his individual size, Juniata will thrive and be greater in the second century than she was in her first."

Stephen M. Sachs '74 President, Senior Class

"Juniata students are very appreciative of the fine facilities and instruction they receive here. I am sure that the students can be counted upon to do their part for the successful completion of the Centennial Fund campaign."

"WHAT IN THE WORLD IS THERE TO DO?"

As part of a year-long concentration on the theme "vocation", Juniata College sponsored a colloquy October 30, 31 and November 1 on the college campus. The title of the colloquy was "What in the World is There to Do?"

The colloquy, which was the second event scheduled for this year concerning the theme vocation, brought on campus persons with varied vocations and life styles. Students had an opportunity to meet with the colloquy participants individually, in small groups and in the classroom.

Participating in the colloquy were: Wayne and Loretta Shirky, Society of Brothers, Charles C. Brown '59, attorney, James E. Barefoot '57, physician, Anna Benjamin, archeologist and former member of Juniata's faculty, Glenn Gress, theatrical and fine arts, Edward Evans, playwright and artist, George Fattman '60, journalist, Samuel Hayes, Jr., State representative, James Lodge, County planner, Martha Lodge, special education, housewife, Klare Sunderland '56, businessman, Joseph Weise, retailing and merchandising, John T. Yates, Jr. '56, research chemist, Kerin Yates '58, research chemist, housewife, Jay Rayvid, public television, Virginia Floyd, performing arts, Elmer Valo, professional sports, James Poling, minister, farmer, Thomas

D. Snyder '66, businessman, Patricia K. Moe '72, state police, Christopher Moore '69, educator for social change, Raymond E. Day '66, YMCA executive, and Eugene C. Baten '63, consultant and trainer for entrepreneurial development.

The colloquy provided an opportunity to talk personally with those involved in varied occupations in which the student is interested. This interest may stem from a mere curiosity about what such an occupation involves to genuine concern about pursuing this type of work in the student's own life.

Every effort was made to invite participants to the colloquy who find a special sense of value and calling in their own choice of life work. Thus it is hoped that the student not only be exposed to someone who can impart technical or factual information about their occupation but also someone who can share with the student a sense of importance and value that he associates with his life work.

This colloquy on vocations should serve to introduce to the campus an issue that will be raised in other places at other times throughout the year. It served as an introduction to a concern that involves the teacher, the student as a student, and the student as one who must eventually choose an occupation, a life work, and a life style.

1973 Homecoming Queen

Miss Cynthia Ann Wills, a senior at Juniata College, was selected 1973 Homecoming Queen by her fellow students. The queen was officially crowned at coronation ceremonies just prior to the Juniata-Susquehanna football game. Miss Wills, a sociology major at Juniata, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Wills, 214 Grandview Road, Wallingford. She was previously chosen the junior attendant to the 1973 May Queen. The queen was attended at the Homecoming festivities by: Miss Jean M. Jarrow of Peckville, senior attendant; Miss Cynthia B. Smith of Dallas, junior attendant; Miss Sharon E. Johnson of Yardley, sophomore attendant; and Miss Beverly A. Martin of Pequea, freshman attendant.

1973-74 ARTISTS SERIES PROGRAM

Hume Cronyn and Jessica Tandy were featured in two one-act plays by Samuel Beckett in the opening attraction of the 1973-74 Juniata College Artists Series. Sponsored by the Juniata Cultural Events Committee and the Ellis Center Board, the 1973-74 schedule includes five singularly distinctive and appealing events. Hume Cronyn and Jessica Tandy performed the Beckett plays, "Krapp's Last Tape," and "Not I." The other attractions on the 1973-74 schedule are: The Warsaw Philharmonic Orchestra, January 21, 1974; Zwi Kanar, internationally established Israeli mime and student of Marcel Marceau, March 12, 1974; the University of Illinois Jazz Band, March 17, 1974; and "Synesthesia," a multi-media music program, April 22, 1974.

Maclay 1973-74 ASF Chairman

Dr. William N. Maclay '47, Vice President and Director of Research, Koppers Co., Inc., has been appointed to the chairmanship of Juniata's 1973-74 Annual Support Fund according to Dr. John N. Stauffer, President of the College.

A member of the College's Board of Trustees and former Chairman of the President's Development Council, Maclay has been an active alumnus for many years. In announcing Maclay's appointment Dr. Stauffer said that "Juniata is fortunate to have the leadership of Bill Maclay in the important assignment; the successful achievement of the Annual Support Fund goals during the last four years has placed Juniata in a favorable financial situation, and I cannot over-emphasize the need for continued success in the years ahead.

"Under Dr. Maclay's guidance I feel confident we will not only achieve the stated objectives but improve upon last year's splendid performance." The goal for the 1973-74 campaign is $130,000.

More than 60 class fund agents will be serving under Maclay's direction and have gathered on the campus for their annual meeting on Saturday, November 10. The 1973-74 Annual Support Fund program was introduced by the chairman and the campaign officially got underway on November 15, 1973.

In accepting the position, Maclay complimented the many Juniataians who are currently supporting the College, and emphasized that "we must continue to seek support from our loyal alumni and strive to involve others as annual contributors." 46% of the Juniata alumni association currently make annual gifts to the College. The alumni association has established a goal of 50% of the alumni body participating by June 1976, Juniata's Centennial Anniversary.

Dr. Maclay is pleased to announce that Dr. Donald M. Rockwell, Professor Emeritus of Chemistry, at Juniata College, accepted leadership in the alumni division of the fund. In addition, Robert E. Claycomb '50 will provide leadership in the business and corporate division, including the matching gift program while Mr. and Mrs. Warren W. Bordner will enlist support in the parents division. Rounding out the leadership in this year's Annual Support Fund are Mr. and Mrs. William R. Brumbaugh '54 who will guide our efforts with the Church of the Brethren.

PARENTS WEEKEND

More than one thousand parents and guests enjoyed the 1973 Parents Weekend program on the Juniata campus on October 26, 27, 28. Highlighting the weekend's activities were the visiting of classes on Friday, a Symposium for Parents on Saturday morning designed to acquaint parents with Juniata's new educational program, the football game with Wilkes College, and the reception for Parents following the game.

Following dinner in Ellis Hall, the Juniata Concert Choir presented Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pirates of Penzance" conducted by Bruce Hirsch. The production was a delightful operatic presentation under the stage direction of Marjorie Hirsch. Doris Goehring was technical director and Ronald Shafer was in charge of set design and construction. Accompanists were Gail Morgan '76 and Debbie Smith '74. It was a delightful performance and the cast received a standing ovation from the overflow crowd in Oller Hall.

The Fourth Annual Meeting of the Parents Association was held following breakfast on Sunday morning at which time Dr. John N. Stauffer addressed the parents. The Weekend's program concluded with an All-College Worship Service in Alumni Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bordner of Huntingdon are serving as chairmen of the Parents Association for the 1973-74 academic year. Their son Bruce is a member of the senior class. Other members of the Parents Executive Committee are Mr. and Mrs. William E. Carpenter '52, who have a son Bill in the Class of '75. Dr. and Mrs. Dean S. Hoover '46-'43 are representing the Class of '76. Their son, Dale, is a sophomore. The Reverend and Mrs. Donald L. Robinson '51 represent the Class of '77. The Robinsons have two students at Juniata—John, a sophomore, and Jane, a freshman.

IN CANCER RESEARCH AT THE ROSWELL PARK MEMORIAL INSTITUTE IN BUFFALO, NEW YORK

Out of 100 select high school and collegiate scholars from across the nation, Stephen M. Sachs, of Mount Union, Pa., has been named the first recipient of the annual Dr. Sidney Farber award.

The 21-year-old Juniata College senior, president of the Juniata College Class of 1974, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Theron E. Sachs, 104 E. Garber St., Mt. Union.

Sachs was the only Juniata undergraduate selected for the unique opportunity to participate in cancer research at the Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, N. Y.

The award honors the late Dr. Sidney Farber, a native Buffalonian and noted researcher of childhood cancer. The purpose of presenting the award is to acknowledge the potential of the research participants in the area of cancer research and studies.

While a member of the summer program Stephen worked with Dr. Elias Cohen, principal cancer research scientist, in the field of immunohematology.

The Juniata senior has been involved in working with a new method with white blood cells to detect antibodies which could lead to the rejection of organs in transplant patients, or possible reactions following blood transfusions.

The Research Participation Program in science combines actual laboratory research under senior staff supervision with lectures, seminars and scientific films. Participants attend at least one lecture each week on which they file a critique with the program office. They are also expected to devote at least 40 hours a week to program work. They must submit progress reports which include a resume of skills and knowledge gained and detailed accounts of their individual research projects.

An outstanding scholar, Sachs has a 3.95 academic average at Juniata College. Six times he has earned perfect 4.0 grade point averages. He plans a career in medicine.

A member of the Juniata College Honor Society, he is a member of the Men's House and the Beta Beta Beta Biological Honor Society. Steve is the recipient of the C. C. Ellis Memorial Scholarship at Juniata.

The Mount Union Area High School Class of 1970 graduate was a member of the varsity wrestling team, the student council, National Honor Society, French Club and Varsity Club. He was class treasurer and was named valedictorian of his graduating class.

The Mount Union man's outstanding scholarship earned him the McCallip's Daily News Award, the Dave Saxe Scholarship Award and the Bausch and Lomb Science Award.

ENCOURAGING DEVELOPMENTS

NORTH SCHOLARSHIP

Juniata College has received a gift of $4,000 from Miss Eleanor B. North of State College for the establishment of The Eleanor B. North Scholarship Fund.

Miss North was a member of the English faculty at Juniata College from 1925-28. The scholarship will be awarded annually to a young man or woman based on character, potentiality and need. Preferences will be given to students preparing for the ministry or full time Christian service.

Miss North, a poet, college professor, lecturer and world traveler, has been the recipient of many honors over the years. She was awarded a scholarship at Harvard University and has pursued graduate research studies at Oxford and Cambridge Universities in England and at the Sorbonne in Paris.

She has written five books of poetry and has been included in every edition of the International Who's Who in Poetry and is listed in numerous other Who's Who publications. Her poems have been published in England, Australia, France and the United States and she has served as a vice president of International Poets' Shrine.

CURRY BEQUEST

Juniata College has received a bequest of $50,000 from the estate of Irene S. Curry, from Hollidaysburg.

As stipulated in Mrs. Curry's will, the funds will be added to the endowment of the college and provide income for the establishment of the Robert D. Curry Scholarship and the Irene S. Curry Scholarship.

In acknowledging receipt of the bequest, Dr. Stauffer said, "Higher education costs continue to spiral upward, making it imperative that more and more funds be available to provide for the continuation of a high quality education. It is support such as this that makes it possible for Juniata to provide financial aid for many worthy and needy students who otherwise would not have the opportunity to earn a college education. Mrs. Curry's bequest is an illustration of the time-honored tradition of one generation providing for future generations."

Mrs. Curry was the wife of the late Robert D. Curry, from Hollidaysburg.

BRUMBAUGH TRUST

Juniata College has received $75,000 from trust funds provided by the estate of its former President and a former Governor of Pennsylvania, the late Dr. Martin G. Brumbaugh. Dr. Brumbaugh died in 1930 and the funds became available following the death of his wife, Mrs. Flora Brumbaugh, in 1972.

The bequest will be added to the College's endowment fund and will provide continued support of teaching through the Martin G. Brumbaugh Professorship in Education. This professorship was initially established through gifts given in honor of Dr. Brumbaugh following his death.

In acknowledging the bequest, Dr. Stauffer said, "Juniata College in the 1970's is especially grateful for the bequest which Governor Brumbaugh directed toward the College nearly 50 years ago. He realized even then the necessity of an adequate endowment for the strength and stability of Juniata as an independent college. The bequest is now especially timely because of the ever-growing need for adequate funds in support of teaching and specifically for the improvement of faculty salaries."

As Governor of Pennsylvania, Dr. Brumbaugh's administration was notable for its constructive policies and humanitarian legislation. The two separate periods of Dr. Brumbaugh's presidency of Juniata were notable for significant increase in enrollment and advance in academic stature.

Governor Brumbaugh, a native of Huntingdon County, was president of Juniata College from 1894 to 1910 and from 1924 to 1930. In addition, he served also as Governor of Pennsylvania from 1915 to 1919, and his earlier career included among others the following distinguished positions: superintendent of Huntingdon County Schools, first Professor of Education at the University of Pennsylvania, Superintendent of Schools in Philadelphia, and the first Commissioner of Education in Puerto Rico where he established a system of public schools.

BURKHOLDER ACCEPTS CHAIRMANSHIP OF PRESIDENT'S DEVELOPMENT COUNCIL

Juniata College President, Dr. John N. Stauffer announced that Mr. W. Clay Burkholder of Milroy, Pennsylvania, has accepted the chairmanship of the President's Development Council for the academic years 1973-74 and 1974-75. Burkholder, currently Executive Director of the Tuscarora Intermediate Unit, has been a public school administrator and educator for more than 37 years.

In making the announcement, President Stauffer stated that Juniata is fortunate to have Mr. Burkholder's able leadership at this key point in the College's history. "I know the Council under Mr. Burkholder's leadership will continue and hopefully accelerate its momentum as we move forward with the Juniata Centennial Fund."

The President's Development Council represents the various college constituencies and geographical areas and advises the president of the college and the development staff of potential support. It also provides advice on long-range plans for campus development.

The new Chairman served as county superintendent of Mifflin County from 1950-1970. Prior to that time, before becoming assistant superintendent, he was supervising principal of the Armagh Township School System and the Stoystown Borough Schools, Somerset County. A native of Altoona and a graduate of Juniata College in 1935, Burkholder received his master's of education degree from the Pennsylvania State University.

President Stauffer remarked that "over the years, Mr. Burkholder has been a constant supporter of Juniata and I am indeed grateful that he has once again agreed to provide his lengthy administrative experience in service to the college." During 1963-64 he was the President of Juniata's National Alumni Association. He and his wife, Kathryn, a retired school teacher, reside in Milroy.

COMMISSION TO PLAN FOR FUTURE

The Board of Trustees has established a Commission to Plan for Juniata's Future to be made up of faculty, alumni, trustee, student and community representatives and to engage in extensive long-range planning for the College. The commission is charged with responsibility for systematic analysis of all pertinent and ascertainable factors relating to the future of Juniata College.

Three faculty members, Dr. William E. Russey, associate professor of chemistry, Alexander T. McBride, assistant professor of art and Ms. Janet R. Lewis, assistant professor of philosophy, will also be on the commission as will Jean L. Pollock '75, who will represent the student body. President Stauffer and Dr. Wilfred G. Norris, provost, will participate with the commission as resource persons. William R. Alexander, director of institutional research, will serve in a similar role and also as executive officer of the commission.

The commission will carry out its basic work in the period from 1973-74 and is charged with the responsibility for recommending the college's course of action as she plans for her second century of service beginning in 1976. Some of the immediate questions to which the commission will address itself: What are Juniata's educational and social responsibilities?; What are the resources—human, historical, financial—which are available for the present and the future?; What are Juniata's potential sources of support? Concentrated attention will also be given to evaluation of the innovative curriculum first introduced in 1971 and now being further developed and implemented by the faculty.

Student Volunteer Service Receives Car

Marlin Gillespie, General Sales Manager of Key Buick-Cadillac, Inc., proudly hands over the keys of this new automobile to Glenn Mitchell '75, Chambersburg, a representative of the Juniata College Student Volunteer Service. Use of the car has been donated to the Student Volunteer Service to enable transportation needs to be met for the 80 Juniata College students involved in the program. The Student Volunteer Service, sponsored by the Juniata Student Government, has volunteers working in child welfare, day care centers, head start, the 4-H Club, the extended care unit of the hospital, Sponsler's Home in Alexandria, the probation office, the Big Brother and Big Sister program, and they are now setting up a tutoring program with the area schools. The goal of the organization is to offer Juniata students a chance to become involved with people and to help the community of Huntingdon in some areas of need.

Key Buick-Cadillac, Inc., owned by Juniata alumnus and member of the board of trustees, Klare S. Sunderland '56, gives the service program a big boost by providing a solution to its many transportation requirements.

CAMPUS NOTES

Kurica '74 In Experimental Program

Ken Kurica spent the majority of the past summer participating in an experimental program at the Deborah Heart and Lung Center in Browns Mills, New Jersey. During the time Kurica was at Deborah, he fit into the institution's regular medical program on the fourth year medical school level. The program entailed work in cardiovascular physiology, anatomy, pathology and diagnosis of heart disease. He also studied the interpretation and use of electrocardiograms, treadmill electrocardiograms and other cardiovascular diagnostic procedures. During the first three weeks Ken was learning the use of the facilities and by the second three weeks of the program he was making rounds while attending conferences and lectures. He also spent two weeks in the heart catheterization laboratory and one week in the operating room observing open heart surgery and did work on several individual research projects from which there will be publications. At the Deborah Center Ken worked under Dr. Alden Gooch, Director of Clinical Cardiology. His advisor here at Juniata is Dr. Donald J. Mitchell, Assistant Professor of Chemistry.

Brown Calls For Year Of Involvement

On September 22, Charles C. Brown, Jr. '59, Alumni Council President, convened the fall meeting of the Juniata Alumni Council, with 26 Council Members and Club Presidents in attendance.

Signaling Brown's emphasis on a year of involvement was a quote from his message to the Council and Club Presidents: "I am hoping for an active and involved leadership group, which, in turn, will involve many other alumni. Involvement is our theme and we can help it occur." Brown went on to challenge the group: "We must recognize that Juniata is the strong institution she is today because of concerned and involved alumni—and then commit ourselves not to maintenance, but to improvement in the year 1973-74."

The theme was reiterated often. Fran Zimmerman's report of the 1972-73 Annual Support Fund indicated that 46% of Juniata's Alumni participated in the College's development programs and were involved in helping to surpass the $130,000 goal. Immediately following Zimmerman's report, Dr. William N. Maclay '47, chairman of the 1973-74 Annual Support Fund announced the 1973-74 goal of 47% participation of alumni for this year. As Maclay put it, "46% of our alumni contributed last year, but that means 54% did not. In addition to maintaining past contributors, we must involve some of the uninvolved majority."

In speaking of alumni objectives for the year, Brown reemphasized alumni participation in the admissions process. He noted that one out of every five incoming freshmen had alumni as relatives and said, "With the decrease in the number of students seeking private colleges, it is important to maintain every possible avenue for attracting prospective students." Dick Dodge '57, chairman of the Admissions Committee, pointed out how easy it is to overlook prospective students. As he put it, "I discovered when the list of incoming freshmen was published last spring, that a young person I knew was planning to come to Juniata. I knew him in Scouts, but I never really thought of suggesting Juniata. You probably know young people like that, too. Maybe you know them in church, or school, or athletics. When you think of them, why not mention Juniata, even offer to bring them to the campus. After all, Juniata is a school of which we can be proud."

Brown announced another alumni objective: continued involvement with career planning as seniors search for employment. This project, which was begun last year, is still very important in helping young men and women make the initial steps in their career. He said, "Even though Ron Shunk does fine work in the Career Planning Office, the state of our economy continues to make the job market very difficult for new entries. If we are in a position to employ, and all things are equal, why not consider Juniata's?"

Alumni Council Members and Club Presidents participated in Workshop sessions. Discussion centered on ways in which the alumni constituency could aid Juniata during the 1973-74 academic year. The group suggested the following opportunities:

1. Encourage prospective students to consider Juniata as their college choice.
2. Make a financial contribution.
3. Initiate communication with a Juniata you haven't seen recently.
4. Encourage others to return for reunions.

Each of us can accomplish at least one of these recommendations and all of us would gain satisfaction from doing as many as possible.

In the Alumni Club Workshop, under the leadership of Shirley Lingenfelter '55, Vice President of the Juniata Alumni Council, considerable discussion revolved around the question of how to make our local clubs more meaningful and enjoyable. Karl Shreiner '61, President of the Waynesboro/Hagerstown Club said, "the local club organization is worthwhile, but there is a need for improvement in organization and operation." Gary Horner '64, President of the Cambria Country Club suggested, "increased communication between the Alumni Office and the local club leadership and, vice versa, will help to make for a successful year." The group expressed diverse opinions on what events should make up club activities, but agreed with Greer Bailey '41, President of the Southwest Pennsylvania Alumni Club, that, "one ingredient must be fellowship." From the discussion, club presidents resolve to be helpful to each other in making this a more beneficial year for all.

As Chuck Brown said at the beginning, "involvement is our theme and we are the people who can help it occur." This is a motto that can be adopted by all Juniata's as we consider the validity of a Juniata educational experience for future generations.

KING AWARDED GRANT

Dr. Robert F. King, Associate Professor of Music, was awarded a grant by the state of Michigan to conduct a chamber orchestra this past Summer in Escanaba, Michigan. Mrs. King was one of the soloists for the group. "For his contributions to the cultural life of the state," Dr. King was also honored by the Governor of Kentucky through a special citation which designates the Juniata professor as a Kentucky Colonel. The award was given to him for his work with the Lexington Philharmonic and the Central Kentucky Youth Orchestra.

Recently the Altoona Symphony Orchestra and Conductor Dr. Robert F. King, were the recipients of three awards for their contributions to the growth and development of good music in the Central Pennsylvania area. Recognition of the outstanding role of the orchestra in its half-century existence came from the city of Altoona, the State House of Representatives and the U. S. Congress. Dr. King was presented a Citation from the House of Representatives for his "innovative programming," for developing a "front-running community orchestra in the Commonwealth" and for his "service to the youth" of the area. He received the Golden Spike from the city of Altoona. Recognition from the Congress came in the form of Congressional Certificate of Appreciation praising the organization for its "dedicated and unselfish service in meeting the cultural needs of the citizens of Blair County and Central Pennsylvania."
